

❖ Acknowledgments

I'm grateful to God for these stories, which demonstrate how the Spirit has touched many Congolese lives over the past century, leading to strong Mennonite communities. God's forgiving and empowering grace shines through in a variety of ways in these glimpses of individuals, who through faith in Jesus have made a strong impact in the life of the church. To God be the glory!

Thanks to my wife, Lynda. Your constant encouragement and belief in the value of this work have made a huge difference.

This project would have remained a great idea and no more, but for the many persons in both Congo and North America who gave time, skills, energy, ideas, and funds to help make it happen. Thanks for sharing your gifts out of your passion, your love for the church, and your generosity.

AIMM's ambassador emeritus, the ninety-years-young Dr. James Bertsche, with the faithful support of his wife, Jenny, has provided major impetus for accomplishing this project all the way along. The idea itself emerged from conversation with Jim. He organized and led most of the fundraising for the project, employing his contacts, setting up meetings, and making presentations over an eighteen-month period. His prodigious memory and storytelling skill contributed to a number of stories included in this collection. Jim served twenty-five years as a missionary in Congo and twelve years as administrator of AIMM. He wrote the history of the mission, CIM/AIMM: A Story of Vision, Commitment, and Grace. His personal knowledge and experience of the history of Congo Inland Mission/Africa Inter-Mennonite Mission and the Congo churches that emerged from its work became an important touchstone during the editing process both in Congo and North America. Jim, thank you. What an immense privilege it's been to work with you.

Thanks to Mennonite Church of Congo President Rev. Dr. Adolphe Komuesa Kalunga and Evangelical Mennonite Church of Congo President Rev. Benjamin Mubenga Wa Kabanga. Your enthusiasm, support, management ideas, and knowledge of your communities have all been keys to the success of this undertaking.

Congolese researchers Jackson Mwatha Beleji, Robert Saka-yimbo Chibulenu, Jean Félix Chimbalanga Wa Mpoyi, Gregoire Moele Djenke Kaumba, Jean Bosco Musakai, Salomon Luku Sa Muya, and Dominique Yona dedicated months of their time and energy to travel widely, visiting many congregations in order to record oral interviews with church members concerning their own or others' lives and ministries. More than 500 local-language interviews have been recorded and preserved. You gathered the foundational information that the writers drew on to write this book. Thanks for your work.

Historian Dr. Fohle Lygunda led the research team in a several-day orientation, sharing essential guidelines on conducting oral interviews and working with the team to identify individuals for whom information needed to be gathered. Thanks, Dr. Fohle.

Congolese writers led by Vincent Mulebo Ndandula, along with Jean Félix Chimbalanga Wa Mpoyi and Jackson Mwatha Beleji, combined their multiple language capabilities with French language literary skill, historical and spiritual insight, and passion for the subject at hand, in order to produce most of these "picture-stories." Thank you for sharing your gifts through these stories. Thanks to Charity Eidse Schellenberg for your beautiful story on Pastor Musende.

Thanks to Nancy Myers, truly a gift of God, who offered her Congo experience, French language capability, and considerable editorial skills on a completely volunteer basis for this volume, at exactly the right time. In addition to editing all the English and already translated stories, she combined skills in translation and editing in order to produce many of the finished stories. She also took charge of the structure of the book, laying out the stories' order, and getting it done on time. Nancy, we could not have achieved this without you.

The translation team did a fine job of rendering French stories into English, often on a volunteer basis. Thanks so much for your contributions to this project. Principal translators were Sylvia Shirk and Sharon Hewitt, accompanied by Nancy Frey and Dr. Jeremy Rich.

Thanks to Dr. James Krabill of Mennonite Mission Network for your encouragement for this project and your willingness to help connect it to Institute of Mennonite Studies.

Thanks to Institute of Mennonite Studies at Anabaptist Mennonite Biblical Seminary for accepting this book for publication. Thanks particularly to Barbara Nelson Gingerich, whose encouragement, knowledge of book publishing, contacts, and organizing skills have helped to keep us on track and to make large tasks doable. Thanks to James Nelson Gingerich for his gift of formatting.

Dr. Jan Bender Shetler, professor of African history at Goshen College, has extensive experience with the oral interview process in Africa and shared practical advice that made a positive difference in the quality of this book. Dr. Jon Bonk of the Overseas Ministries Study Centre, besides encouraging this project, connected me with Dr. Fohle, who in turn provided high quality training for the research team. Dr. John Roth of Goshen College's Institute for the Study of Global Anabaptism offered constant encouragement for sharing these stories. Thanks to all of you.

Thanks to my work colleagues—AIMM office manager Lola Gingerich, Steve Wiebe-Johnson of Mennonite Mission Network, and Hippolyto Tshimanga of Mennonite Church Canada. Your work and support for this project have been significant.
